Contents

Preface to the Second Edition . . . vi
Acknowledgements . . . ix
Foreword to the First Edition . . . xvi
Independent International Assessment of the First Edition . . . xviii
Bibliography . . . xx
Note on Transliteration . . . xxx
Abbreviations . . . xxxi
Latin Abbreviations and Phrases . . . xxxii
Glossary of Arabic Terms . . . xxxiv

Chapter 1: Introductory Perspectives . . . 1

1.1 Background . . . 1
1.2 A personal journey . . . 2
1.3 The purpose of this book . . . 3
1.4 The need for a historical analysis . . . 4
1.5 Outline of this book . . . 5

Chapter 2: Definitions and Terminology . . . 7

2.1 Introduction . . . 7
2.2 The South African Constitution . . . 7
2.3 Religious definitions . . . 8
2.3.1 Islam . . . 8
2.3.2 Shari'a (Islamic law) . . . 10
2.3.3 Muslim Personal Law (MPL) . . . 10

Chapter 3: Setting out the Problem . . . 12

3.1 Introduction . . . 12
3.2 Islam and Islamic law (Shari'a) . . . 12
3.3 Inequality in the primary sources . . . 13
3.4 Reform – or disloyalty? . . . 14
3.5 Muslim Personal Law and the private/public spheres . . . 15
3.6 Understanding the role of Islamic law . . . 16

Chapter 4: 'Rights' of Women in Pre-Islamic Arabia . . . 17

4.1 Introduction . . . 17
4.2 Historical background . . . 17
4.3 Status of women . . . 18

Chapter 5: Early Beginnings of Islam (First and Second Periods) 20

5.1 Introduction 20
5.2 The origins of Islam 20
5.3 The revelation of the Qur'an 21
5.4 Focus on the Qur'an 22
5.4.1 Structure of the Qur'an 22
5.4.2 The legal verses 23
5.4.3 Verses dealing with women's issues 24
5.4.4 Normative and contextual verses 24
5.4.5 Moral norms and legal rules 25
5.5 The Sunna 26
5.5.1 Brief description 26
5.5.2 Authority of the Sunna 26
5.5.3 Codification of Ahadith 27
5.5.4 Transmission of Ahadith by women 29
5.5.5 Role of the Sunna 29
5.5.6 Are Ahadith a true reflection of the Prophet's words and deeds? 29
5.6 Additional sources of Islam 30
5.7 Concluding remarks 31

Chapter 6: The Rights of Women after the Advent of Islam 32

6.1 Introduction 32
6.2 Marriage 32
6.2.1 Concurrence among male jurists regarding inter-religious marriages: a critique of this view 32
6.2.2 Polygyny 37
6.2.3 Divorce and custody of children 41
6.2.4 Additional aspects of marriage 42
6.3 The Islamic ethic of modesty, Muslim women's veiling (hijab) and seclusion or segregation of the sexes 43
6.4 Female infanticide 45
6.5 Succession 45
6.6 Ownership of property 46
6.7 Role of women 46
6.8 Concluding remarks 47

Chapter 7: Emergence of a Muslim Empire (Third and Fourth Periods) 48

7.1 Introduction 48
7.2 The Third Period (11–40 AH/ 632– 661 AD) 48
7.2.1 Historical background 48
7.2.2 The Qur'an and Sunna in the Third Period 49

7.2.3 Compilation of the Qur'an as a written document 49
7.2.4 Sequence of chapters in the Qur'an 50
7.2.5 Ethical and legal dimensions 50
7.2.6 Women's status during the Third Period 51
7.3 The Fourth Period (41–132 AH/ 661–750 AD) 52
7.3.1 Historical background 52
7.3.2 Development of the judiciary 52
7.3.3 Emergence of Islamic law 53

Chapter 8: Emergence of the Schools of Jurists and the Road to Modernity (Fifth and Sixth Periods) 54

8.1 Introduction 54
8.2 The Fifth Period (132–656 AH/ 750–1258 AD; 132–300 AH/ 750–900 AD): Historical background 54
8.3 Changes in women's status 55
8.4 The Abbasids and Islam 55
8.5 The emergence of Islamic law 56
8.6 Establishment of the Sunni schools 56
8.6.1 The Hanafi school 57
8.6.2 Hanafi legal theory 58
8.6.3 The Maliki school 59
8.6.4 The Shafi'i school 59
8.6.5 Compilation of the sources of law 60
8.6.6 The Hanbali school 61
8.7 Other schools of law 61
8.8 Differences among male jurists regarding abortion 62
8.9 Consequences for women of variations of opinion among jurists 64
8.10 Collections of Ahadith 65
8.11 Interpretation of the Qur'an 67
8.12 Closing the doors of interpretation 68
8.13 Concluding remarks on the Fifth Period 70
8.14 The Sixth Period (1400s to the early 1800s) 70
8.15 Status of women in the Sixth Period 71

Chapter 9: Reform and Modernity (Seventh Period: 1800s to date) 73

9.1 Introduction 73
9.2 Social reform and women's rights 73
9.3 Colonialism, intellectualism and reform movements (1800–1945) 74
9.4 Role of women in reform 76
9.5 Independence: 1945 onwards 77
9.6 Codification of MPL (1950–) 78
9.7 Reform of MPL per se 78
9.8 Improvement in the status of women through legal reform 79

9.9 The rise of Islamism 81
9.10 Concluding remarks 82

Chapter 10: Different Perspectives on Women and Islam 84

10.1 Introduction 84
10.2 Ideological perspectives: conservative, fundamentalist (Islamist), modernist and progressive perspectives 84
10.2.1 Brief overview 85
10.2.2 Ideological perspectives and the Qur'an 87
10.2.3 Practical implications of the ideological perspectives 88
10.3 Women's Islamist and feminist perspectives – a 'work in progress' 89
10.3.1 Introduction 89
10.3.2 Feminist perspectives 91
10.3.3 Examples of Muslim feminists and gender activists 92
10.3.4 A 'feminist agenda'? 97
10.3.5 Feminism and Islamist women 98
10.4 Resolving the dilemma of gender equality? 101
10.4.1 Under-utilised gender neutral and 'ethico-religious' Qur'anic injunctions favouring equality 101
10.4.2 Over-utilised gender discriminatory and 'socio-economic' Qur'anic injunctions favouring inequality 106
10.5 Methodologies for reform 108
10.6 Concluding remarks 111

Chapter 11: Equality: Divorce as a Case Study 113

11.1 Introduction 113
11.2 General requirements of talaq (dissolution) 114
11.3 Legal implications of divorce 117
11.3.1 Revocable (raj'i) and irrevocable (ba'in) divorces 117
11.3.2 Inheritance 117
11.3.3 Maintenance 117
11.3.4 Dower 118
11.3.5 Remarriage 118
11.4 Forms of divorce 119
11.4.1 Divorce by the husband 119
11.4.2 Divorce by the wife 119
11.4.3 Divorce by mutual agreement of the spouses 120
11.4.4 Judicial process (tafriq) 120
11.4.5 Option of puberty 120
11.5 Comments on divorce 120
11.6 Concluding remarks 121

Chapter 12: Issues and Challenges Emerging from the Overview of the Historical Development of Islamic Law 123

12.1 Taking a fresh look at history 123
12.2 The impact of culture 124
12.2.1 An example of the impact of culture: the Islamic veil (hijab) debate 126
12.3 Muslim women and advocacy 129
12.3.1 Knowledge of Arabic and Islam 130
12.3.2 The importance of role models 131
12.3.3 Women working together 131
12.4 Towards equality as 'sameness' or as 'difference' 132
12.4.1 Equality as 'sameness' or as 'difference' 132
12.4.2 Equality in Muslim countries? 133
12.5 Exploring solutions to achieve equality 134
12.5.1 Taking direct responsibility 134
12.5.2 Ijtihad as a mechanism of reform 136
12.5.3 A shift in focus: the modernist approach to reform 139
12.6 Being a Muslim woman in South Africa today 142

Chapter 13: A Snapshot of Muslim Personal Law (MPL) in South Africa: Past to Present 143

Chapter 14: Conclusions 163