CONTENTS

Table of Cases xiii
Table of Legislation xvii

1. Introduction 1
2. Consumer Law and the Market 9
    1. Introduction 9
    2. Historical Evolution of Consumer Law and Policy 10
        2.1. The lack of a consumer law category 11
        2.2. Political recognition of the consumer at the international level 12
        2.3. Different national models of consumer protection 14
        2.4. The notion of the average consumer in EU law 16
    3. The European Union's Competence in Consumer Law 18
        3.1. The Treaty of Rome 18
        3.2. The Single European Act 21
        3.3. The Treaty of Maastricht 23
        3.4. The Treaty of Amsterdam and the Tobacco Advertising case 26
    4. Consumer Policy and the Lisbon Treaty 31
        4.1. The full-harmonization trend 31
        4.2. The implications for national systems 33
        4.3. The citizen consumer and the Charter of Fundamental Rights 37
        4.4. The Lisbon Treaty 39
    5. Conclusions 43

3. The Evolution of Consumer Protection and Human Rights 45
    1. Introduction 45
    2. The International Law Context 46
        2.1. Consumer protection as a new generation of human rights? 46
        2.2. Implicit consumer protection in human rights agreements 49
        2.3. The United Nations Guidelines for Consumer Protection 50

2.4. Debates on human rights 51
2.5. The impact of international law on consumer protection 53
3. Consumer Protection in the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights 54
3.1. The creation and the aim of the Charter of Fundamental Rights 54
3.2. The functions of the Charter and its social dimension 56
3.3. The relevant provisions in the Charter for consumer protection 58
3.4. The scope and limited application of the Charter 61
3.5. The difference between rights and principles 63
3.6. The implications of the Charter and the Lisbon Treaty 65
4. The Influence of Constitutional Rights and Principles 68
4.1. Constitutional consumer law models in selected countries 68
4.2. The impact of constitutional rights and principles on contracts 71
4.3. The protection of health and safety 72
4.4. Consumer codes 75
5. Conclusions 75

4. A Broader Perspective on Consumer Protection and Human Rights 77
1. Introduction 77
2. The Transformed Role of the Consumer 78
2.1. Changes in markets and regulation 79
2.2. Changes in consumers, vulnerable groups, and ethical trends 81
2.3. Adapting consumer law to economic and social changes 83
3. Freedom, Capabilities, Human Rights, and Procedures 85
3.1. Economic efficiency, freedom, and justice 85
3.2. Substantive freedoms, capability, and ethical demands 89
3.3. Human rights 93
3.4. Procedural rights and participation 96
4. Reassessing EU Consumer Law and Fundamental Rights 98
4.1. Economic and social dimensions of consumer law 99
4.2. Social responsibility and sustainable behaviour 101
4.3. Procedural rights—a catalogue for consumer law? 104
4.4. Feasibility and policy implications 106
5. Conclusions 107

5. Consumer Protection and Financial Contracts 109
1. Introduction 109
2. Financial Consumer Protection and Credit Regulation 110
2.1. The rise of consumer credit and EU regulation 113
2.2. The 2008 Credit Agreements Directive and its focus on information 116
2.3. Responsible lending 119
2.4. Social justice debates 121
3. Fundamental Rights, Social Principles, and Non-Discrimination 123
3.1. The role of the Charter 124
3.2. Constitutional principles in financial guarantor cases 126
3.3. Protection of guarantors by the ECJ 128
3.4. The fundamental right of non-discrimination 130
4. Financial Capability and Over-Indebtedness 133
4.1. Corporate responsibility and social banking 134
4.2. Financial literacy and education 137
4.3. The 'fresh start' in consumer bankruptcy 140
5. Conclusions 143

6. Electronic Communication, Fundamental Rights Conflicts, and Consumer Participation 145
1. Introduction 145
2. Liberalization and Universal Services 147
2.1. Evolution of the current legal framework 148
2.2. The concept and justification of universal services 150
2.3. Services of general economic interest in primary law 151
2.4. Universal services in secondary law 154
3. Information, Unfair Terms, and Fundamental Rights Conflicts 156
3.1. Consumer empowerment through information 157
3.2. Protection from unfair terms and dispute resolution 159
3.3. Data protection as a human right 160
3.4. Balancing fundamental rights 162
3.5. The Scarlet Extended case 164
4. Consumer Participation 166
4.1. Participation and representation of consumer interests 167

4.2. The Communications Consumer Panel and EU consultations 168
4.3. Participation and the citizens' initiative after Lisbon 171
5. Conclusions 173

7. Consumers' Access to Justice and Procedural Rights 175
1. Introduction 175
2. Access to Justice as a Human Right 176
2.1 Access to justice barriers 177
2.2. Existing redress mechanisms in the EU 179
2.3. Collective redress mechanisms in Member States 181
2.4. A typology of collective redress cases 183
3. Procedural Consumer Rights 186
3.1. Recent developments in EU law and policy 186
3.2. The principle of effectiveness and EU competences 190
3.3. Developing EU collective redress procedures for consumers 192
3.4. Alternative dispute resolution and fundamental rights 195
3.5. The new legislation on ADR and ODR 199
4. Litigation Funding 202
4.1. The fundamental right to legal aid 202
4.2. Contingency fees 205
4.3. Conditional fee agreements and human rights limitations 206
4.4. Third-party funding and legal expenses insurance 207
4.5. Consumer actions and class proceedings funds 208
5. Conclusions 209

8. Conclusions 211

Bibliography 217
Index 237