

Contents

- 13     Introduction
- 19     Chapter I
       *“One feels that one is at one with one who once...:”
       Pico della Mirandola and Stephen Dedalus*
- 1.1. Correspondences, 24 – 1.2 Everything that can be known, 28
- 37     Chapter II
       *The Marriage of Mystery and Mystettry: Blake’s
       Apocalypse and Joyce’s Last Podding*
- 2.1. Revealing the texts, 42 – 2.2. Blakean echoes, 47 – 2.3. Mysteries (dis)closed, 51
- 55     Chapter III
       “See the web of the world:” the (Hyper)textual Plagiarism in Joyce’s Finnegans Wake and Nabokov’s Pale Fire

3.1. Hypertextualities, 60 – 3.2. 3.2 Kinbote's library: Finnigan's Wake, 70 – 3.3. Readers and raiders, 79

83 Chapter IV

"When he left the beach the sea was still going on:"
Walcott (re)verses Joyce

4.1. Inscribing tradition: Ulysses and Omeros as titles, 85 – 4.2. (His)stories, 93