

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword by François de Callataÿ	5
François de Callataÿ Long-term quantification in ancient history: a historical perspective	13
Neville Morley Orders of magnitude, margins of errors	29
Alain Bresson The Ancient World: a climatic challenge	43
Gerassimos G. Aperghis Creating a long-term model for an ancient economy	63
Robartus J. van der Spek and Bas van Leeuwen Quantifying the integration of the Babylonian economy in the Mediterranean world using a new corpus of price data, 400-50 BCE	79
Josiah Ober Greek economic performance, 800-300 BCE. A comparison case	103
Geoffrey Kron Comparative evidence and the reconstruction of the ancient economy: Greco-Roman housing and the level and distribution of wealth and income	123
Andrew Wilson Quantifying Roman economic performance by means of proxies: pitfalls and potential	147
Willem Jongman The new economic history of the Roman Empire	169
Peter Temin Price behaviour in the Roman Empire	189

Walter Scheidel Roman real wages in context	209
Roger S. Bagnall Late Roman data collection	219
Elio Lo Cascio and Paolo Malanima Ancient and pre-modern economies GDP in Roman Empire and early modern Europe	229
The Authors	253