CONTENTS

Acknowledgements 7
Preface 9
by Maria Anita Stefanelli

1. Making Visible. Theatrical Form as Metaphor: Marina Carr and Caryl Churchill
   by Cathy Leeney 15

2. Obscene Transformations: Violence, Women and Theatre in Sarah Kane and Marina Carr
   by Melissa Sihra 27

3. Can the Subaltern Dream? Epistemic Violence, Oneiric Awakenings and the Quest for Subjective Duality in Marina Carr’s Marble
   Interview with Marina Carr 62
   Excerpt from Marble by Marina Carr 69
   by Valentina Rapetti

4. “The house is a battlefield now”: War of the Sexes and Domestic Violence in Van Badham’s Kitchen and Warren Adler’s The War of the Roses
   Interview with Van Badham 92
   Excerpt from Kitchen by Van Badham 97
   by Barbara Miceli

5. Serial Killers, Serial Lovers: Raquel Almazan’s La Paloma Prisoner
   Interview with Raquel Almazan 113
   Excerpt from La Paloma Prisoner by Raquel Almazan 124
   by Alessandro Clericuzio 101
Contents

6. “To Put My Life Back into the Main Text”: Re-Dressing History in The Second Coming of Joan of Arc by Carolyn Gage
   Interview with Carolyn Gage 129
   Excerpt from The Second Coming of Joan of Arc and Selected Plays by Carolyn Gage
   by Sabrina Vellucci

7. Turning Muteness into Performance in Erin Shields’ If We Were Birds
   Interview with Erin Shields 149
   Excerpt from If We Were Birds by Erin Shields 172
   by Maria Anita Stefanelli

8. Afterword: Vocal and Verbal Assertiveness 187
   by Kate Burke

Contributors 193