

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Introduction	1
1 An Emergent Global Commons: Biodiversity—A Case Study of How Culture becomes Law and Nature becomes Empty Space	19
PART I RES NULLIUS/TERRA NULLIUS AND THE EPISTEMIC IMAGINARY OF INTERNATIONAL LAW
2 Terra Nullius, Res Nullius and Res Communis : A Conceptual Confusion of Terms	57
3 Res Nullius —The Tragedy of the (Modern Global) Commons: From Grotius and the High Seas to the Internet	71
4 Covering Res that Move: Theory and Practice; Whales and Res Divini Juris	107
5 The Law of the Sea Extended Vertically into the Law of Outer Space, and the Law of Outer Space Reterritorializing the Earth	125
PART II TWO CASES OF THE REVOCATION OF TERRA NULLIUS
6 The Western Sahara Case: Genealogies Captured by the Census	153
7 Negotiations and the Mabo Case: Comparative Epistemic Imaginaries	169
Conclusion: Beyond Empty Space—Expanding the Epistemological Repertoire of the Global Commons through Biofigural and Technological Imaginaries	195
Bibliography	201
Index	215