

List of Illustrations xi

Foreword xiii

Frederick L. Kirschenmann

Preface xix

Acknowledgments xxi

Introduction: The Student Farm Movement in Context 1

Laura Sayre

♦ Part 1 ♦

Roots

1. Berea College (1871): The Work College Legacy 31

Sean Clark

2. Wilmington College (1946): Balancing Education and Profitability 51

Monte R. Anderson and Roy Joe Stuckey

3. Sterling College (1962): Working Hands, Working Minds 69

Julia Shipley

♦ Part 2 ♦

Back to the Land

4. Evergreen State College (1972): Interdisciplinary Studies in Sustainable Agriculture 89

Stephen Bramwell, Martha Rosemeyer, and Melissa Barker

5. University of Oregon (1976): Designing for Change 109

Ann Bettman

6. University of California, Davis (1977): Moving from the Margins toward the Center 129

Mark Van Horn

7. Hampshire College (1978): The Agricultural Liberal Arts 149

Lorna Coppinger and Ray Coppinger

♦ Part 3 ♦

Coming of Age

8. University of Maine (1994): Majoring in Sustainable Ag 173
Marianne Sarrantonio
9. Central Carolina Community College (1995): Growing New Farmers 192
Robin Kobanowich
10. Prescott College (1996): Agroecology as the Cultivation of Soil and Mind 209
Tim Crews
11. University of Montana (1997): Agriculturally Supported Community 227
Josh Slotnick

♦ Part 4 ♦

New Directions

12. University of British Columbia (2000): The Improbable Farm in the World City 249
Mark Bomford
 13. New Mexico State University (2002): Planting an OASIS 269
Constance L. Falk and Pauline Pao
 14. Michigan State University (2003): Four-Season Student Farming 289
John Biernbaum
 15. Yale University (2003): A Well-Rounded Education 306
Melina Shannon-DiPietro
- Conclusion: Starting a Student Farm 323
Laura Sayre and Sean Clark

Appendix: An Inventory of Student Farm Projects in the United States and Canada 333

Further Reading 341

List of Contributors 345

Index 351