I. 15TH-CENTURY SOUTHEAST ASIA AND MING CHINA — OVERVIEWS

1. Southeast Asia in the 15th Century
   Geoff Wade

2. Assessing the Ming Role in China’s Southern Expansion
   Sun Laichen

II. ĐẢI VIỆT AND THE MING

3. The Ming Factor and the Emergence of the Việt in the 15th Century
   Li Tana

4. Paperwork: The Rise of the New Literati and Ministerial Power and the Effort toward Legibility in Đại Việt
   John K. Whitmore

5. Nation and Geo-Body in Early Modern Vietnam:
   A Preliminary Study through Sources of Geomancy
   Momoki Shiro

6. Contextualising the Book-Burning Episode during the Ming Invasion and Occupation of Vietnam
   Ong Eng Ann, Alexander
III. TAI AND KHMER POLITIES AND THE MING

7. Shan Gems, Chinese Silver and the Rise of Shan Principalities in Northern Burma, c. 1450–1527
Sun Laichen

8. The Northern Tai Polity of Lan Na (Ba-bai Da-dian) in the 14th and 15th Centuries: The Ming Factor
Volker Grabowsky

9. Agricultural Technology and the Consolidation of Tay Polities in Northern Continental Southeast Asia during the 15th Century
Christian Daniels

10. Cambodia and Its Neighbours in the 15th Century
Michael Vickery

IV. MARITIME SOUTHEAST ASIA AND THE MING

11. Hybrid Identities in the 15th-century Straits
Anthony Reid

12. New Ships for New Networks: Trends in Shipbuilding in the South China Sea in the 15th and 16th Centuries
Pierre-Yves Manguin

13. A Ming Gap? Data from Southeast Asian Shipwreck Cargoes
Roxanna M. Brown

14. Before and After Zheng He: Comparing Some Southeast Asian Archaeological Sites of the 14th and 15th Centuries
John N. Miksic