Contents

Preface ix
Introduction xv
Abbreviations xxix

PART I
Understanding Change in China

1 The Broader Chinese Context 3
   The Nature of the World Trade Organization 4
   The Nature of Informatization 6
   China and the WTO 9
   WTO and Change 12
   The Banking Industry and WTO 14
   The Impact of Informatization on Chinese Organizations 15
   Explaining Social Revolution as a Cultural Change 16
   Chinese Business Culture 18
   State-Owned Enterprises and Human Resource Management 20
Management Development and Human Resource Development in China ........................................ 23
Transformational Change and Knowledge Migration ...................................................... 27
Note ................................................................................................................. 29

2 China's Banking Industry ........................................................................... 31
Chinese Economic Development ........................................................................... 32
China's Banking System Reform with Faster Economic Development .............................. 33
The Impact of China Joining the World Trade Organization on the Banking System ........ 37
The Needs for Organizational Change in China's SOEs .................................. 40
Transformational Change in the Chinese Banking Industry ................................. 43
Approaches to Managing Change in Chinese State Banks .................................... 45
Barriers to Improvement in China ........................................................................ 45
Traditional Cultural Values ................................................................................ 45
Lack of Motivation of Top Executives to Make Any Change .................................. 47
Ignorance and Inadequate Training in Management Skills .................................. 48
Lack of Skilled OD Practitioners Working in China .............................................. 49
Implications .................................................................................................... 49
Reflection ........................................................................................................ 51
Notes ................................................................................................................ 52

PART II

A Theoretical Exploration of Change

3 Organizational Change .............................................................................. 55
Introduction to Organizational Change ............................................................... 56
Transformational Change .................................................................................. 66
The Theory of Messes and Difficulties ............................................................... 68
Refining OD ...................................................................................................... 69
Fitness Coherence and Pathology .................................................................... 75
Exploring Pathologies in Social Collectives .................................................... 77
PART III

Empirical Evaluations

7 Creating Measures

The Measuring Instrument
The Studies
Developing an Organizational Patterning Map
Sampling Strategy
Units of Analysis
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>Developing Organizational Patterning</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>Reform in the Chinese Banking System</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

8 Developing Organizational Patterning
- Types of Pathology
- Establishing Qualitative Inferences for Coherence and Pathology
- Coherence
- Pathology
- A Refined Framework
- The Need for Organizational Change in China's Banks

9 Reform in the Chinese Banking System
- The Global Financial Crisis
- The Composition of the China Banking System
- The China Commercial Banking System
- Noncommercial Banks
- The China Banking Supervisory System
- China's Banking System Reform
- The First Reform
- The Second Reform
- The Third Reform
- Change in Governance Structure
- Change in Banking Organizational Structures
- Change in Supervisory Structures
- The Performance of the China Banking System
- The Challenge to the China Banking System
- State-Owned Problems
- Problem 1: No Completely Independent Operation
- Problem 2: Too Much Reliance on the Policy

References

Appendix