

CONTENTS

Foreword by Andrew Layton, Intellectual Property Office xv

PART ONE Brand value 1

1.1 The economics of the brand story 3

Tony Hodges, brandstory

Strategy with a human face 3

Across borders 4

The inside story 4

1.2 Brand premiums 6

Stuart Whitwell, Intangible Business

Value point 6

Brand equity 7

Brand value 7

1.3 Brand positioning 9

Ian Sutton, Milestone Design

1. Define your customers and market 11

2. Define your brand 12

3. Write your positioning statement 13

1.4 Multi-channel brands 15

David Finch, Purple Frog

Why protect a brand? 15

What is a multi-channel brand? 15

And finally 19

1.5 The brand journey 21

Matthew Primack, IMG Licensing

The vision 21

Pelé Sports 22

Finding Pelé 22

Pelé Sports products 23
Pelé Sports growth 23
Conclusion 24

PART TWO Brand architecture 25

2.1 The global framework 27

Roger Lowe, ip4all

Globalization and intellectual property (IP) 27

The Paris Convention 27

The Madrid System 28

The Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of IPRs 29

IP Harmonization and the European Community 29

2.2 The trademark advantage 33

Daniela Carosi, Directorate general for the Fight against counterfeiting –
Italian Patent and Trademark Office

How an enterprise can protect its trademarks 34

2.3 IP in commercial agreements 37

Jeremy Summers and Sally Britton, Pitmans

Why include intellectual property in commercial agreements? 38

What if I don't deal with intellectual property within my agreement? 38

Key intellectual property clauses within commercial agreements 39

Summary 40

2.4 Trademark strategy and other brand essentials 42

Johanna Pyhälä, Berggren

Trademark-related actions in the launching of a new brand 42

Trademark strategy 43

PART THREE Brand rights 45

3.1 Trademarks 47

Peter Cornford, SH&P

What does a trademark say? 47

What can be claimed or protected as a trademark? 48

Why should I register my trademark? 49

What does it all cost? 50

Some common mistakes and misconceptions 51
So, then, what is a ‘brand’? 51
Summary and conclusion 51

3.2 Copyright 53

Hubert Best

What is copyright? 53
How does copyright work? 53
Use copyright to create your brand 55
Use copyright to keep your brand unique 56
Use copyright to build on your brand 57

3.3 Brands online 61

Kolvin Stone, Orrick

How is your brand protected online? 61
Using trademarks online 62

3.4 Designs 65

Nigel Jackson, Jacksons

The legal maze 65
To register or not to register 67

PART FOUR IP portfolio 69

4.1 Registering Community trademarks 71

Erkki Holmila, Berggren

4.2 Design synergy 75

Peter Kylin, Hynell

General considerations due to increased specialization 75
The beauty of design protection, especially the Community Design
Registration RCD 76
Synergies combining design and patents 76
Synergies combining design and trademarks 76
Obtaining a wider design scope 77

4.3 National vs European 79

Rolf Rings, Rings & Spranger

Main differences between national German and EU-wide trademark (CTM) 80

Cost factor 81

Length of registration procedure 81

Legal risks of national German application versus European CTM 82

Flexibility and trademark litigation situation 83

Conclusion 83

4.4 Trademarks: registration tactics 85

Fabian Sokolowski, Maikowski & Ninnemann

Application/registration 85

Opposition 87

Use requirement 88

Revocation due to non-use 88

Practical advice 89

4.5 Advertising and marketing campaigns 92

Moritz Dietel, Schmidt-Felzmann & Kozianka

Trademark law in the European Union 92

Community trademark (CTM) 93

Range of protection 94

Conclusion 96

PART FIVE Creating an identity 97

5.1 Brand naming 99

Ian Sutton, Milestone Design

Judging names 99

Strategic names 99

Working for your customers 100

Ownability 100

Start the story with the name 101

Your name online 101

Changing names 102

Brainstorming 102

Three-letter acronyms 102

Remember the product 102