

Contents

Table of cases	vii
Table of legislation	xi
Series Editors' Preface	xvii
Introduction to the fifth edition	xix

Chapter 1 But I want to be a social worker, not a lawyer 1

Why law? • What went wrong in Cleveland? • How and why is the law changed? • What kinds of law are there? • How does the law operate to set boundaries but without interfering too much in everyday practice?

Chapter 2 Human rights 18

What are human rights? • How are infringements of people's rights challenged? How can decisions be challenged?
• Human Rights Act 1998 and the European Convention on Human Rights • Applying the European Convention on Human Rights benchmark • Mental health, the European Convention on Human Rights and persons of unsound mind • The challenge of new mental health legislation

Chapter 3 Children's rights and needs 37

What is a child? • Children's rights • Meeting children's needs for education • Supporting families and helping them to look after children • Providing substitute care • Transition into adulthood

Chapter 4 Meeting children's needs when things go wrong 55

Parenthood, parenting and parental responsibility • Principles that apply to court cases • Disputes within families • Child protection investigations • Child protection intervention • Speaking up for children • System failure

Chapter 5	Community care	79
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> What are community care services? • Assessment is the key • What services can be provided • Commissioning services • Withdrawing services • Protecting vulnerable adults • Experiencing community care • Integrating health and social care, finance, and empowering service users and carers
Chapter 6	Youth justice	103
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Preventing crime • Arrest and bail • Dealing with first offenders • After the first offence • Youth rehabilitation orders • Parenting orders • Custody • Special kinds of orders • Experiencing the youth justice system
Chapter 7	Ending up in court	119
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Why is the court so important as a forum for decision-making in social work? • When are social workers likely to end up in court? • Appearing in court can be fun • Who's who in the court system? • What happens in court? • What does it feel like to go to court? • Making court a positive experience
Chapter 8	Providing a quality service	141
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Professional standards and promoting sound practice • Quality assurance of services and standards of care • Social workers and service users • Social workers, their employers and the public • Social work and the law • Review and future: What next?
	Exercise answers	157
	Appendix: Subject benchmark for social work	164
	References	169
	Index	176