Part I: Social Sciences

ROLAND BOER
Utopia, Religion and the God-Builders: From Anatoly Lunacharsky to Ernst Bloch ................................................................. 2

GEORGE ACHIM
Utopia Today: Between Revolutionary Illusion and Holistic Engineering .................................................................................. 21

DANIELA DUNCA
Logos and Pathos in Thomas More's Utopia ......................................................................................................................... 30

RODICA-GABRIELA CHIRA
Utopia as a Method of Evaluation of the Real ......................................................................................................................... 40

PETRU DUNCA
Utopias in the 20th Century: Communism ........................................................................................................................... 52

BOGDAN DRAGOMIRESCU
Hegel and Marx: Utopia between Theoria and Praxis ................................................................................................................ 62

LUDMILA LIPICH
The Utopian Ideas of Francis Bacon’s New Atlantis ............................................................................................................. 83

BIANCA BEATRICE MICHI
The Principle of Plenitude, Utopia and Heterotopia ................................................................................................................ 92
BODHISATTVA CHATTOPADHYAY
Degeneration: The Lens of Dystopia in Early Science Fiction 109

Part II: Literature and Linguistics

ROY ROSENSTEIN
Dystopian Borges: “The Lottery in Babylon” and Its Utopian Model 118

LIVIU COTRĂU
William Golding and the Magical Power of Words 131

DENNIS LEAVENS
Aspiration of Idealism, Polemics of Morality in The New Atlantis and Herland 141

GEORGETA CORNIȚĂ
The Quotidian “Story” between Utopia and Dystopia 157

NOEMI BARTHÁ
Subverting the Self on a Dystopian Background in Christine Brooke-Rose’s Out 164

HEND T. AL-SUDAIRY
Dystopia Within 173

MARINELA LUPŞA
The Repeated Fall and the Utopia of Innocence: Lord of the Flies (1954) 178

ANDREEA POPESCU
Four Legs Good, Two Legs Bad: The Dystopia of Power in George Orwell’s Animal Farm 192

LUMINIȚA TODEA
Utopia of English Business Communication in a Romanian Professional Environment 201

MIRCEA FARCAȘ
Linguistic Dystopias in the North-West of Romania 213
RAMONA DEMARCSEK
Portrayal of a Dystopia in Paul Goma’s Jurnal pe sărite
[Journal I: By Leaps and Bounds] ................................................................. 227

ADRIAN OŢOIU
Is Neverland a Children’s Utopia? ............................................................... 236

LIGIA TOMOIAGĂ
Kazuo Ishiguro’s Never Let Me Go: A Non-Scientific View
on a Dystopian World of Clones ................................................................... 255