Chapter One................................................................................................................1
Shadowlines: Interrogating "Woman" and "Asia"
Deuleena Ghosh

Part I: Sexuality

Chapter Two..............................................................................................................14
Brides, Maids and Prostitutes: Reflections on the Study of "Trafficked Women"
Nicole Constable

Chapter Three.........................................................................................................36
"Over My Dead Body": Media Constructions of Forced Prostitution
in the People’s Republic of China
Elaine Jeffreys

Part II: Art and Religion

Chapter Four..........................................................................................................66
Shadow Lines of Control: An Indian Artist Dialogues with a Kashmiri Poet
Ananya Jahanara Kabir

Chapter Five...........................................................................................................80
Shanghai Dancers: Gender, Coloniality and the Modern Girl
Vera Mackie

Part III: Politics and Labour

Chapter Six.............................................................................................................98
Can Careers Cross Borders? Chinese Women in the Australian Workforce
Chris Ho
Chapter Seven ......................................................................................................................... 120
“Madhu pretends to be a Mary”: Gender, Labour and the Making of Meaning in Bangalore Call Centres
Devleena Ghosh

Chapter Eight ......................................................................................................................... 145
Becoming Respectable Again? Marriage Choices amongst Migrant Sex Workers in the Riau Islands
Lenore Lyons and Michele Ford

Chapter Nine ......................................................................................................................... 169
Strategizing for Politics: Chinese Women’s Participation in the One Party State
Louise Edwards