

Contents

Preface	vii
Chapter I: Introduction
1. General introduction	1
2. The guarantee paradox – the main problem fields
2.1 Lack of legislation	4
2.2 Lack of knowledge and lack of distinction	5
2.3 Lack of a legal construction of a guarantee	6
2.4 If it is so problematic why use it? – the positive aspects of guarantee	6
3. Origins of guarantee – introduction
3.1 Etymology of the word	7
3.2 Origins of the guarantee	7
3.3 Evolution of the guarantee	8
4. Guarantee on the modern market
4.1 General	8
4.2 Fields of guarantee application	9
5. Functions of the guarantee	9
6. Scope of the dissertation and the research question
6.1 Introduction	11
6.2 Why only sales?	12
6.3 Why only consumer sales?	12
6.4 Sales means services these days	13
6.5 Guarantees by producers and guarantees by other parties	13
6.6 Other functions of the guarantee	14
7. The research question and the plan of the thesis	20
8. Methodology	21

Chapter II: The consumer sales guarantee in EU policies

1. From competition law to private law – consumer sales guarantees in European policies	23
2. Guarantees in competition law
2.1 Introduction	25
2.2 Article 101 (formerly Article 81)	25
2.3 European competition law on consumer sales guarantees – decisions, cases and resolutions	26
3. Guarantees in consumer programmes
3.1 Opening the discussion	38
3.2 The Unfair Contract Terms Directive	40
3.3 The Green Paper of 1993	41
3.4 The following developments	45
3.5 The Consumer Sales Directive	46
3.6 After the Consumer Sales Directive	49
3.7 Further review of the consumer acquis	51
4. Conclusions
4.1 The aim of this chapter	54
4.2 What conclusions may be drawn from analysing the policy steps regarding the guarantee?	54

Chapter III: Consumer sales guarantees – European regulatory framework

1. Introduction
1.1 General	59
1.2 Regulatory assumptions of the Directive	59
1.3 Analysing the Directive	62
2. Analysis of the Directive's rules
2.1 The scope of the rules on the guarantee in the Directive	63
2.2 General: name, source, legal nature, creation	74
2.3 Contents of the guarantee	79
2.4 Transparency requirements	101
2.5 Infringements	113
2.6 Omitted issues	114

3. Conclusions

3.1	General evaluation	121
3.2	Assumptions of the Directive concerning the guarantee: are they correct?	122
3.3	Assumptions of the Directive concerning the guarantee: are they fulfilled?	122

Chapter IV: Analysis of the consumer sales guarantee – general part

1. Introduction

1.1	General introduction	123
1.2	The scope of the analysis	124

2. The name

2.1	Introduction	125
2.2	Order of the analysis	125
2.3	A guarantee: what does it mean?	126
2.4	The problems	126
2.5	Variety of names	126
2.6	Reasons for the differentiation in terms	128
2.7	Legal and commercial guarantees	128
2.8	The proposed solutions	129
2.9	Conclusions: how to avoid confusion?	130

3. The dual nature of the guarantee

3.1	General introduction	131
3.2	The scope of the analysis	132
3.3	The dual nature of the guarantee: voluntary and obligatory guarantees	132
3.4	Voluntary guarantees	133
3.5	Content of the voluntary guarantee	133
3.6	Obligatory guarantees	135
3.7	The source of the guarantee – a summary	138

4. The legal form of a guarantee

4.1	What is the legal form?	139
4.2	The European approach	140
4.3	Why is it important to make such a classification?	142
4.4	Plan of the analysis	142
4.5	Sellers vs. other participants of the commercial chain	143

5. Legal guarantee and commercial guarantee – internal and external relationships between two regimes
5.1 Introduction	158
5.2 The external relationship between the statutory liability regime (conformity) and guarantee	159
5.3 The internal relationship	164
6. Conclusions
6.1 General	166
6.2 Specific areas	167

Chapter V: Analysis of the consumer sales guarantee – specific part

1. General introduction	169
2. Parties engaged in the guarantee relation
2.1 Introduction	170
2.2 The party who offers the guarantee and the party who transmits the guarantee to the buyer	171
2.3 The seller's position in a guarantee offered by the producer	174
2.4 Seller's guarantee	179
2.5 The party who receives the guarantee and the party who benefits from the guarantee	180
2.6 Who performs under the guarantee and who is liable under the guarantee?	183
3. Coverage of the guarantee
3.1 Introduction	186
3.2 Methods of indicating the scope of the guarantee coverage	186
3.3 Mandatory coverage	188
3.4 Default coverage	188
3.5 The minimum content	192
3.6 Establishing the content by reference	192
4. Analysis of the guarantee coverage in the strict sense
4.1 General introduction	202
4.2 The coverage in the strict sense	203
5. Remedies of the guarantee
5.1 Introduction	211
5.2 The typical remedies	212
5.3 Practicalities of invoking the remedial system	213

6. Free guarantee and guarantee against payment
6.1 Introduction	217
6.2 Should guarantees be for free or against payment?	217
6.3 Where can the guarantor impose a charge (the 3 types)?	220
6.4 Extended guarantees as a form of a guarantee against payment	222
7. Duration of the guarantee
7.1 Introduction	225
7.2 Measuring the duration	226
7.3 Computation of the guarantee duration	229
8. Limitations on the guarantor's liability under the guarantee	238
8.1 Limitations regarding content	239
8.2 Limitations based on formal requirements	241
8.3 Burden of proof	242
8.4 Conclusions	243
9. Transparency requirements
9.1 Introduction	244
9.2 Why ensuring transparency is important in the case of guarantees.	245
9.3 Transparency requirements – general overview	246
9.4 Different perspectives of assuring the guarantee's transparency	247
9.5 Information allowing an informed choice by the consumer	248
9.6 Putting the guarantee in the proper context	253
9.7 Information that allows the enforcement of the guarantee	257
9.8 The requirement to “activate” the guarantee	258
9.9 Availability of the guarantee document – general	259
9.10 Language and formulation	264
9.11 What if the transparency requirements are not met?	265
9.12 Where the content of the guarantee should be presented – in relation to the advertisement – a mention	266
10. Conclusions	267

Chapter VI: Conclusions

1. Introduction	271
2. Overview of the thesis
2.1 The aim of the thesis	271
2.2 Overview of the chapters and conclusions drawn on their basis	272

3. General conclusions	276
3.1 Conclusions regarding the Consumer Sales Directive	277
3.2 Conclusion from the point of view of national legal systems	281
3.3 Conclusions regarding the legislative process at the EU level	282
4. Conclusions reaching beyond the scope of research questions	283

Annex

Consumer Sales Guarantees in the European Union – a summary	285
Garanties bij de verkoop van consumptiegoederen in de Europese Unie – samenvatting	295
Gwarancja przy sprzedaży konsumenckiej w Unii Europejskiej – streszczenie	307
Bibliography	321
Official documents	335
Index	341