

Contents

---

Preface by Jan Wouters	x
Acknowledgements	xii
List of abbreviations	xiv
List of cases	xviii
List of treaties and other instruments	xxxii
1. Introduction	1
2. From compensation to indirect takings	18
2.1 Calvo doctrine and nationalisations	19
2.1.1 Against the international standard	20
2.1.2 The road to lump-sum agreements	23
2.2 The law of expropriation at the UN	27
2.2.1 Sovereignty and natural resources	27
2.2.2 International economic orders	31
2.3 Changes in economy, politics and treaty law	33
2.3.1 Investment protection at the turn of a century	34
2.3.2 A shift in the international debate	37
2.4 Conclusion	40
3. Expropriation in human rights law	50
3.1 A debated right and its taking	51
3.1.1 Protecting property in the Americas	52
3.1.2 Deprivations and encroachments	54
3.2 The European Convention and property	57
3.2.1 Interferences with a right	58
3.2.2 Proportionality and deprivations	60
3.3 Not only expropriations	63
3.3.1 Public interest and lawfulness	64
3.3.2 Controls on the use, other interferences	68
3.4 Conclusion	71
4. The approach of the Iran–US Claims Tribunal	83
4.1 Takings in an ad hoc forum	84

4.1.1	Defining property and expropriation	85
4.1.2	Other measures affecting property rights	87
4.2	The problem of indirect takings	90
4.2.1	Constitutive acts	91
4.2.2	Claims that were rejected	93
4.3	Conditions of legality and their consequence	95
4.3.1	The effect or impact of the measure	96
4.3.2	Compensation and its standard	99
4.4	Conclusion	102
5.	Bilateral treaties and international awards	112
5.1	FCN's failure, BIT's success	113
5.1.1	Ad hoc investment treaties	114
5.1.2	Lawful takings under BITs	117
5.2	Aiming at the case-law	119
5.2.1	The expropriation of investments	120
5.2.2	Early claims before arbitral panels	123
5.3	The question of intent	125
5.3.1	Exceptions to an approach	126
5.3.2	Conforming to a trend?	129
5.4	Conclusion	133
6.	Takings in multilateral treaties	147
6.1	Doctrine and soft-law	148
6.1.1	First attempts to address expropriation	149
6.1.2	Guidelines for a lack of agreement	153
6.2	Investment chapters of EIAs and the fall of MAI	157
6.2.1	NAFTA and other plurilateral treaties	158
6.2.2	A good idea wrongly executed	162
6.3	The case-law of FTAs and ECT	165
6.3.1	Early NAFTA awards	165
6.3.2	In a current state of flux	170
6.4	Conclusion	173
7.	The applicable standard	184
7.1	A restless jurisprudence	185
7.1.1	Replacing the minimum for a maximum	186
7.1.2	GAL theory and the proportionality test	190
7.2	Explaining an approach	195
7.2.1	On public purpose	196
7.2.2	Substantial and permanent deprivation	200

7.3	Investment treaties and the rule of law	203
7.3.1	Aliens under international law	205
7.3.2	Expectations and governance	208
7.4	Conclusion	211
8.	Conclusion	225
	Bibliography	229
	Index	249