Introduction: New Perspectives on Movie-Going, Exhibition and Reception
Karina Aveyard and Albert Moran

Part I: Theoretical Perspectives

Chapter 1: Cinema, Modernity and Audiences: Revisiting and Expanding the Debate
Daniel Biltereyst

Chapter 2: What is a Cinema? Death, Closure and the Database
Deb Verhoeven

Chapter 3: A Poetics of Film-audience Reception? Barbara Deming Goes to the Movies
Albert Moran

Chapter 4: The Porous Boundaries of Newsreel Memory Research
Louise Anderson
Chapter 5: Why are Children the Most Important Audience for Pornography in Australia?
Alan McKee

Part II: The Film Industry – Systems and Practices

Chapter 6: Local Promotion of a ‘Picture Personality’: A Case Study of the Vitagraph Girl
Kathryn Fuller-Seeley

Chapter 7: ‘Calamity Howling’: The Advent of Television and Australian Cinema Exhibition
Mike Walsh

Chapter 8: A Nation of Film-goers: Audiences, Exhibition and Distribution in New Zealand
Geoff Lealand

Chapter 9: The Critical Reception of Certified Copy: Original Art or Copy of a Rom-com?
Eylem Akatav

Part III: Movie Theatres – From Picture Palace to the Multiplex

Chapter 10: Movie-going in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia: A Case Study of Place, Transportation, Audiences, Racism, Censorship and Sunday Showings
Douglas Gomery

Chapter 11: From Mom-and-Pop to Paramount-Publix: Selling the Community on the Benefits of National Theatre Chains
Jeffrey Klenotic

Chapter 12: A Progressive City and Its Cinemas: Technology, Modernity and the Spectacle of Abundance
Mark Jancovich and Lucy Faire with Sarah Stubbings

Chapter 13: ‘They Don’t Need Me in Heaven ... There are No Cinemas There, Ye Know’: Cinema Culture in Antwerp (Belgium) and the Empire of Georges Heylen, 1945-75
Kathleen Lotze and Philippe Meers
Chapter 14: From Out-of-town to the Edge and Back to the Centre: Multiplexes in Britain from the 1990s
Stuart Hanson

Part IV: On the Margins

Chapter 15: The Place of Rural Exhibition: Makeshift Cinema-going and the Highlands and Islands Film Guild (Scotland)
Ian Goode

Chapter 16: ‘A Popcorn-free Zone’: Distinctions in Independent Film Exhibition in Wellington, New Zealand
Ian Huffer

Chapter 17: Getting to See Women’s Cinema
Julia Knight

Chapter 18: Shifting Fandoms of Film, Community and Family
Tom Phillips

Part V: Just Watching Movies?

Chapter 19: Watching Popular Films in the Netherlands, 1934-36
Clara Pafort-Overduin

Chapter 20: Contemporary Italian Film-goers and Their Critics
Alan O’Leary and Catherine O’Rawe

Chapter 21: Imagining a ‘Decent Crowd’ at the Indian Multiplex
Adrian Mabbott Athique

Chapter 22: The VHS Generation and their Movie Experiences
Janna Jones