

List of Illustrations	vii
Maps	vii
Black and White Figures	vii
Color Plates	xiv
Acknowledgments	xxi
1. Introduction	1
The Interview Process	2
The Emergence of Issues	3
The Landscape	4
The Four Study Sites	6
On the Transliteration of Lao Language	12
2. Structures of Meaning: Religion of the Spirits and of the Buddha	13
Spirit Religion: Saatsanaa Pii , or Tuue Pii	15
Buddha Religion or Theravada Buddhism: Saatsanaa Put	52
3 Weaving and the Language of Design	65
Weaving Materials and Styles	65
The Language of Design	72
4. Design Motifs: The Geography of Power	97
The Sky Above: Birds Who Bring and Take Away	99
The Earth Below: Serpents Who Protect and Terrify	111
Walking the Middle Ground: The Elephant, Real and Mythical	140
Traversing the Worlds: Human Spirits, Shamans, and Weavers	150
Flowers, Natural Objects, Geometric Designs	160
5. Religion and Design in Traditional Textiles	169
The “Weaving Act”	170
Considerations of Design and Use	171
Traditional Women’s Clothing	172
Domestic Textiles	190
Textiles of Ritual Healing	193
Textiles for Rituals of the Dead	211
Buddhist Textiles	223
6. Conclusion	227
A Comparative Study of Several Long Narrow Textiles in Laos: Phaa Sabai , Phaa Phii Mon , Phaa Phai , Phae Kep , Phaa Biang Patricia Cheesman	231

Sang Sinxay: Revitalizing Lao Identity through a Jataka Tale Peter Whittlesey	236
Black Tai Textile Traditions in Highland Northern Vietnam Eric Crystal	239
Color Plates
pp. 1-32	between pages 104-105
pp. 33-64	between pages 168-169
Notes	242
Glossary	248
References	254
Index	257